UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

PUBLIC HEALTH

The UGA College of Public Health nurtures students' passions by steering them down a pathway to success in the ever-changing world of public health. Whether you have an interest in nursing, medicine, health education or any health-related field, our diverse set of degrees will prepare you for a challenging career. Our students go on to fight the spread of foodborne illness and global infectious disease, improve air and water quality, protect natural resources and develop health policies that improve community wellness and increase access to care for those in need. With training in public health, you'll be equipped to tackle the world's most pressing health challenges.

► BECOME A DOUBLE DAWG®

The College of Public Health is the first and only school of public health in Georgia to offer an accelerated Master of Public Health (MPH) program for undergraduate students in a variety of disciplines.

► FIELD EXPERIENCE

Internships are available through 450 governmental and private sector agencies and include amazing places like the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Children's Healthcare of Atlanta and World Health Organization.

► A CULTURE OF SERVICE

Each spring, CPH students complete approximately 30,000 hours of on-site learning and service across the state of Georgia that equates to nearly $692,100 of volunteer service to local communities.

► INSTITUTE FOR DISASTER MANAGEMENT

The Institute has been contracted by the Georgia Department of Public Health since 2006 to manage the state's health care community preparedness program by designing and implementing disaster exercises for hospitals, nursing homes and other health care organizations across the state.
