FORESTRY & NATURAL RESOURCES

The Warnell School of Forestry and Natural Resources is the oldest forestry school in the South, with a long history of working to improve forests and water throughout the state and the region. We teach conservation practices and sustainable management of our natural resources, with a focus on researching new and better ways of using and restoring them.

As a student, you will learn through hands-on training in the field—through outdoor labs, unique habitats, community outreach and other experiential learning. Our graduates understand the challenges facing our ecosystems and are prepared to help manage them for future generations.

92% job placement rate after graduation

8 discipline areas to fit your career goals

11 different student clubs and organizations spanning a range of disciplines

20% of undergraduates receive a Warnell scholarship

DOUBLE DAWG® OPTIONS

In just five years, eligible students can earn a Bachelor of Science in Forest Resources and either a Master of Forest Resources or Master of Natural Resources.

CERTIFICATE PROGRAMS

Gain an interdisciplinary perspective through our certificate options, including Environmental Education, Water Resources, Atmospheric Sciences, Environmental Ethics, Leadership and Service, and Sustainability.

EMERGING CAREER FIELDS

With degree emphases in growing areas such as geospatial information science, community forestry, and parks, recreation, and tourism management, our students benefit from a flexible curriculum and real-world skills.

A PIONEERING HISTORY

Warnell was among the first forestry programs in the South—and the only one in Georgia—to be accredited by the Society of American Foresters.

A TIGHT-KNIT FAMILY

Our students get a small-school experience within UGA, and graduates join one of the University's most dedicated alumni and professional networks. Among alumni who give back to UGA, ours have one of the highest participation rates.
