& Natural Resources
UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

FORESTRY & NATURAL RESOURCES

As the South's oldest forestry school, Warnell has a proud history of preparing leaders in forestry, natural resources, and environmental science. Combining rigorous academics with hands-on experience, our programs equip students with the expertise and real-world skills to address critical environmental challenges.

Through cutting-edge research, dedicated faculty, and immersive fieldwork, Warnell drives innovation in sustainable resource management, advances forest science, and inspires the next generation of environmental leaders to make a lasting impact.

4 majors in the natural resources: Fisheries & Wildlife Sciences (including Aquatic Sciences, Wildlife Sciences, and Pre-Veterinary), Forestry, Natural Resources Management and Sustainability (including Community Forestry and Arboriculture, Geospatial Information Science, and Water and Soil Resources), and Parks, Recreation, and Tourism Management.

100% of undergraduates complete at least one experiential learning opportunity.

$400k+ in scholarships are available annually to Warnell students. On average, these awards benefit more than 85 students—ensuring 1 in 5 Warnell students receives financial support.

MINORS & CERTIFICATE PROGRAMS

Expand your expertise with interdisciplinary minors in Fisheries and Aquatic Sciences, Forestry, Parks, Recreation and Tourism Management, or Wildlife Sciences, plus certificate options in Environmental Education and Water Resources.

INDUSTRY-RECOGNIZED CAREER READINESS

Graduates are career-ready for roles in consulting, NGOs, and government agencies, meeting SAF criteria and qualifications for disciplinary certifications like Certified Forester, Wildlife Biologist, Arborist, Fisheries Professional, and state forester licensure.

ACADEMIC ADVISING & SUPPORT

Navigating college requirements and career goals can be daunting. Our dedicated team of advisors are there to guide you through your degree requirements and electives, while our career services, writing program, and data literacy instructors support your long-term success.

A TIGHT-KNIT FAMILY

Our students get a small-school experience within UGA, and graduates join one of the university's most dedicated alumni and professional networks. Despite being the 3rd smallest school on campus, among alumni who give back to UGA, ours have one of the highest participation rates.
